EDITORIAL

- The Canadian Business Journal does accept guest columns written by industry experts from all business sectors.
- CBJ will publish guest articles, subject to our final internal approval.
- CBJ does not accept articles that make mention of the author's employer and their best practices within the body of the article. Articles are to be generic in nature so as to be applicable to an industry as a whole.
- A brief one to two-line bio of the author, including their career history and current workplace, will be included at the conclusion of the article. A headshot photo of the author will also appear alongside the article, if one is provided. Headshot photos must be high-resolution i.e. the original-sized photo. Pictures that have been shrunk for website optimization will pixelate (blur) during our layout & design process.
- Articles and photos supplied to CBJ may be edited for clarity and/or brevity prior to publication.
- Article lengths will vary depending upon the topic but should be no longer than 1,500 words unless otherwise discussed with CBJ.
- Submissions to be considered for publication in any upcoming monthly issue should be sent via email at least five business days prior to the end of each calendar month. Later than five business days will not guarantee publication (assuming the content is acceptable).

Note that each monthly issue of CBJ does not carry a specific theme focusing on one particular industry. It is a fluid publication with an assortment of coverage over numerous business sectors in all 12 monthly editions.

To find out more about contributing a guest article, contact Angus Gillespie at angus@cbj.ca and include a brief bio about the author's professional career that supports him or her as being an industry expert.
